MAJOR SAMUEL MARK GRIFFITH

(Mr. RIGELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RIGELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay respectful tribute to a fallen hero, Major Samuel Mark Griffith, United States Marine Corps. Major Griffith, known as "Sam" to his family and friends, was killed in action in Afghanistan last week.

Mr. Speaker, I attended Sam's memorial service yesterday; and in the service, a very moving letter was read that had been written by a marine in Sam's unit. It described how Sam had insisted on taking the other marine's place on the next nightly patrol, because the patrols were receiving enemy fire each time they went out.

Sam knew full well the inherent danger and the risk involved in the next patrol. It was Sam's nature to run to danger in defense of freedom and in defense of his fellow marines.

Sam leaves behind a wonderful family, including his wife, Casey, and two fine young boys, Chad and Noah.

Mr. Speaker, the burden of defending freedom has fallen heavy on the Griffith family. So we pause today in this House, and rightfully so, to honor Sam and to extend our heartfelt sympathy and deepest condolences to the Griffith family, asking that God would grant them a special measure of peace and grace in the days ahead.

THE WALKAWAY REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

(Mr. HOYER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, we walked away from 160 million Americans and put their tax cut at risk. We walked away from 48 million Americans and put their access to doctors at risk, and we walked away from 2.3 million unemployed.

Frankly, when President Bush asked us to stabilize the financial markets, two-thirds of his own party walked away. On December 3, they walked away from Bowles-Simpson. On March 15, 54 Republicans walked away from continuing government funding. On April 14, 59 Republicans walked away from their bill to continue funding of the government.

On June 23, their majority leader walked out on the Biden talks. On July 22, Speaker BOEHNER walked out on the talks he had with President Obama. On August 1, 66 Republicans walked away from making sure America pays its bills. On November 17, 101 Republicans walked away from the appropriation bill for three of our Departments. That was a Republican bill they walked away from.

On November 21, Republicans walked away from the Joint Select Committee on Deficit Reduction.

The Walkaway Caucus should not have put at risk working Americans in this country today.

FUNDING EUROPE

(Mr. BURTON of Indiana asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, while we talk about the issues of the day, one of the things that has been missing over the past several months in the discussions on the floor is the amount of treasure from the American taxpayer that's going to Europe. We have through the Fed been sending hundreds of billions and trillions of dollars in loans to Europe.

In addition to that, we're sending money through the International Monetary Fund, in which we put 18 percent. We're sending hundreds of billions of dollars to Europe.

We've got a lot of problems here at home, and we shouldn't be risking American taxpayers' money by sending it to bail out countries in Europe that very well might go belly-up and if they do go belly-up, that's going to come back to haunt us in America; and the value of our currency will be depreciated, and we'll have very high inflation. We need to take care of the United States and not worry about Europe right now.

THE GRINCH
